Don't Look Now Sunday, February 29, 2019 A Message from Chuck I've just returned from Oslo where I attended the World Festival of Animated Film. Although I did not make the cut for their most prestigious award at the festival (they had 88 finalists who compete with each other), it was a great opportunity and I enjoyed being there. It is always an interesting mix of short, medium and long films with titles like "The Little World of Donbass" which is a film by German director Jan Kiepura that recently premiered at the Berlin International Film Festival and "After the Evil" which is an India documentary. It's a bit of a hunt to find all these movies and many of them are available online. The festival included screenings of several Netflix originals and a big hit was The Meyerowitz Stories. Co-director Noah Baumbach is a fine storyteller and this is his first film as a director. It's rated PG but there is more for adults. Three of my films are in the program. "The White Page," which is based on a true story, was awarded the Silver Medal. I have no idea what the other two films are about but here are the titles. "My Name is Alive" is a little bit of a musical that got into the Berlin festival. "Don't Look Now" is by Nicolas Roeg who directed "La Femme Nikita" with Kristin Scott Thomas and "Eyes of a Child" that won the Palme D'Or and was nominated for an Oscar for best foreign film. It was a busy week for me and I was honored to receive the Women in Animation Lifetime Achievement Award in a very nice ceremony that took place at the US Embassy. It was a sweet moment to meet some very nice friends from the art and industry. I enjoyed the cocktail party. It's always interesting meeting those of you who have worked at Disney as I worked on a Disney channel show a 1cdb3666d

Alec Thomas Alec Thomas was born in London on 8 April, 1945. His father was a doctor. His mother, a writer, is best known for one of the first 'single-agent' novels - the A-bombers Are on Their Way and Now! The father and mother met in the 1930s when his father was an army doctor. From an early age, the young Alec developed a huge interest in insects, especially beetles. In England, the young Alec began painting, whilst his parents were abroad. In 1965, at age 22, he moved to Edinburgh to study art. A year later, he returned to London. He did his first painting in London at the Mariposa Gallery. Alec's paintings, particularly his early Insect pictures, were shown in the Royal Academy and other major British galleries. Alec's paintings of insects sold very quickly and he met several leading dealers of the time, including Dennis Wheatley of London. When he left the Mariposa Gallery, Alec was invited to give an exhibition at the Heythrop Gallery and moved to Oxford, where he was offered a studio by the painter Rosemary Dobson. In 1972 he married Julie Birley and in 1975 their daughter was born. Alec decided to leave Oxford and returned to London in 1976 where he stayed for the next 10 years. In 1986, while touring the galleries of Europe and North America, he discovered a bookshop in the local French town, Harpenden, which specialized in insects. He stayed there for two years, working on a new series of insect paintings. In 1988, he moved to Canberra, Australia, with his family. They settled at Kambah, where he owned the historic Wilkes house. Alec continued painting his new collection of Insect pictures, as well as producing new paintings of various Australian animals and plants. He also began to paint landscapes and still lives. Meanwhile, he was invited to lecture on insects at the Museum of Natural History in Canberra, which led to a career as a lecturer, as well as being actively involved in the management of the Australian Insects Research Trust. Alec and his family returned to England in 1996 where he has since been involved in many shows and exhibitions. He
