- More Informations - - License - Carenado by jjacobso - Untested Builds (Beta) - Minimal Noise Performance (Beta): (un)zip the folder and import as a favorite to be used to simplify configuration and to avoid being accidentally deleted. --- The development of Carenado took its beginning in 2009 on the car I had the chance to buy. I have been tinkering and experimenting with the OSRX environment for several years, but for some reason it had never occurred to me that I could use OSX and X-Plane 10 as a vehicle for designing my own flight model. I started by looking for a bug with the FDR and the IW10, which was patched in 4.3. As I was not satisfied with the experiences I had, I decided to give it a real go and develop my own flight model. The files for that model were verified on an X-Plane 10 installation on an OSX 10.8 Mountain Lion and complied successfully on a Linux Mint derivative, I have verified it on X-Plane 10 4.3. --- OSX Mountain Lion - MavericksSupported X-Plane 10 FAA approved X-Plane 10 Navigation Data Licensed X-Plane 10 JSON serialization without import licence --- Carenado uses OSX Media Center 2D movie slider for the Righteo media player, it can be changed using the preferences of the player. Visit their page here - The development of Carenado has also supported others that have made contributions to OSX and X-Plane 10, thank you guys for helping me and all flight model designers, if you are interested go here - and make a donation for help to OSX and X-Plane 10, I or one of these persons will sure be glad to get your contribution. --- So here is the fist version of my FMS for X-Plane 10,
